

START SCHOOL WITH A SMILE

What To Do When Young Children Cry About Going

© 2001 By Dr. Charles Fay

At schools across America, teachers see two types of first-year students: one quickly adjusts to school and begins to enjoy it, the other cries each day at the door. By applying some easy-to-follow Love and Logic[®] guidelines, parents can help their youngsters belong to a very lucky group ... students who start school with fun instead of fear.

Arrange a tour of your child's school before the year starts.

It's not unusual for young children to imagine the worst when they don't have enough information. Big fears about where they are going to sit, where they will eat, whether their teacher will be "nice," and what they will do if they need to use the restroom become much smaller when parents take this step.

Teach confidence by showing it.

When parents spend too much time trying to calm their children's fears, their children begin to think, "Wow. If my parents are this concerned about me, and they have to talk this much about going to school, maybe there really is something to be worried about!"

More effective parents give lots of hugs, listen, and say, "I love you." Doing this, they send a very strong message of confidence. Simply put, confident parents tend to have confident kids ... worried parents tend to have worried kids.

If you drive your child to school, leave quickly.

Smart parents give quick hugs, let their kids know they're in a hurry, and leave without looking back. Why? Because the underlying message they send to their children is, "You can handle this. You're strong!" It's amazing how children either live up to — or down to — our expectations.

Avoid backing down from tantrums and tears.

Don't teach your child to be fearful by backing down to crying and allowing him or her to stay home! Regardless of how heart wrenching their cries become, Love and Logic parents send their kids to school. Why? Because all experienced teachers say the same thing: "It's amazing how fast kids calm down after their parents are out-of-sight!"

Parents across the country are finding these Love and Logic techniques are easy-to-learn, teach kids to be responsible, and change lives! One parent commented, "My six-year-old son was so afraid of school he wouldn't even get out of the car when I tried to drop him off. We were desperate. The day we tried these tips, and had some help from the teacher getting him out of the car, was the last day we had these problems. We're a happy family again!"
